I really feel this case has gone on long enough. Technology moves so fast and the issues in this case move on to other companies just as fast. Seems that government just has to go after the smart and inventive that are leaders in creativity. The only thing I care about is that my computer works and the software does all that it is supposed to do. I am not a techie but I am learning more all the time and I like most of my friends am just a home user who has used a computer for our business and now use it for a varied choice of projects. The only other comment I have is a wish for the software to be less expensive for we who are on a more limited income. Thank You Patricia Torngren
